ABOUT POLISH LANGUAGE

Some theory :) Polish is a West Slavic language written in the Latin script. It is spoken primarily in Poland and serves as the native language of the Poles. In addition to being the official language of Poland, it is also used by the Polish diaspora and there are over 50 million Polish speakers around the world.

The Polish language ranks as the sixth most-spoken among languages of the European Union.

Is it (very) difficult? Maybe, but don't worry! It is so complicated, that even Polish people have many problems to speak and write 100% correctly. But some information can help you to understand it better.

The Polish language is a crazy creation of verb conjugation and noun inflexion. It uses seven cases what gives very complex grammar.

It has difficult pronunciation and many exceptions to every one rule. Remember! The same word in few sentences can take a different form depending on the number (singular or plural), cases and gender.

The Polish alphabet is based on the latin Script, extended by nine diacritical signs - ą, ć, ę, ł, ń, ó, ś, ź and ż.

Besides, there are seven digraphs, which are pronounced like one single letter/sound - ch, cz, dz, dź, dż, rz and sz.

ABOUT POLISH LANGUAGE - PRONUNCIATION

Polish pronunciation is rather regular. Once you learn the rules, you should be able to guess how a word is pronounced and get it more or less right even if you've never heard it before (unlike English which is rather unpredictable). Step by step you will get familiar with the rules.

SPELLING TIPS:

ą sounds like 'on' in the French 'bon'

c like the 'ts' in 'bits'

e like the 'e' in 'bet'

ę like 'en' as in the French 'bien'

g like the 'g' in 'get'

i like the 'ee' in 'feet'

j like the 'y' in 'yeah'

ł like the 'w' in 'win'

ń like the 'ny' in 'canyon'

ó and u like 'oo' in 'boot'

w like the 'v' in 'very'

y like the 'i' in 'hit' ch and h like the 'h' in 'his'

cz and ć like the 'ch' in 'beach'

dz like the 'ds' in 'beds'

dż like the 'g' in 'George'

rz, ż and ź like the 'su' in 'treasure'

sz and ś like the 'sh' in 'ship'

Vowels are pronounced similarly to their counterparts in most other European languages -not English though. But note, there are no long vowels.

In most cases, vowels are pronounced separately. b d f h k l m n p t z are pronounced as you'd expect them to be.

POLISH LANGUAGE CERTIFICATES

All foreigners and Polish citizens permanently residing abroad may take the examination regardless if, where, how and how long they have prepared for the examination.

First state certificate examinations in Polish as a foreign language were administered in Poland and internationally in 2004. Since that time 267 of examination sessions were organized, 11 697 examinees took the exam on B1, B2, C1 and C2 levels.

Proficiency in Polish is defined as the ability to understand modern written and spoken Polish and use Polish speaking and writing skills.

For more information on the certificate in Polish as a foreign language go to website: www.certyfikatpolski.pl

For what (besides everyday life in Poland) is knowledge of Polish useful? There are situations in which you must have a certificate certifying that you have passed the state exam of proficiency in Polish.

This is necessary if:

- you want to obtain Polish citizenship
- you apply for a job in public institutions in Poland.
- you apply for studies conducted in Polish language.

Apart from these situations, in most cases it is enough that you can communicate freely in Polish. If you have been here for a short time, it is worth taking care of at least the basics.

The fact that you make an effort to speak Polish will undoubtedly win you the hearts of the people of Lublin.

The Cambridge exams are not as common globally as the TOEFL or IELTS. They are often required for admission to UK universities and they are accepted in European Union countries.

First Certificate in English (FCE)
Certificate in Advanced English (CAE)
Certificate of Proficiency in English (CPE)
Business English Certificates (BEC)
